SUMMARY

About the website

CeraVe is a global skincare brand, known for products formulated by dermatologists. It offers skincare solutions like cleansers, moisturizers, serums, etc.

Purpose

The official CeraVe website (desktop version) serves three main purposes:

- Product discovery and education

The site introduces the users to the various products offered by CeraVe, while educating them about their ingredients and skin concerns.

- E-commerce and purchase facilitation

The site functions as a storefront, displaying product details, that enables the user to browse, compare and purchase products. It also has links to partner retailers that sell their products.

- Brand trust creation

The site builds dermatologist-backed credibility through product claims, articles, and scientific content, helping users make informed choices.

Primary users

The primary users of CeraVe products include (but are not limited to):

- General consumers looking for affordable, dermatologist-approved skincare products.
- Health-conscious shoppers researching products by skin concerns, ingredients, and skin type.
- Parents and caregivers selecting products for babies/kids that are gentle on the skin.
- Returning customers looking forward to purchase same/different products.

Methodology

The evaluation followed Nielsen Norman's "10 usability heuristics for user interface design" as the framework.

Individual approach

The heuristic evaluation was conducted individually to identify usability issues across CeraVe's desktop site.

Session schedule

The evaluation was completed over three sessions, each lasting approximately 60 mins to allow a thorough review of navigation, product discovery, product detail and checkout pages.

Guidelines used

Nielsen Norman's heuristics:

1. Visibility of system status
2. Match between the system and the real world
3. User control and freedom
4. Consistency and standards
5. Error prevention
6. Recognition rather than recall
7. Flexibility and efficiency of use
8. Aesthetic and minimalist design
9. Help users recognize, diagnose, and recover from errors
10. Help and documentation

Rating scale used

Each issue was rated on a severity scale of 0-4, where:

0	The issue is minor, and does not impact system usability
1	Cosmetic problem only, fix only if there is extra time on the project
2	Minor usability problem, fixing this should be given a low priority

3	Major usability problem that is important to fix, fixing this should be given a high priority
4	Usability catastrophe, imperative to fix before the product launches

Summary of Heuristic evaluation findings

Heuristic violation frequency

The following breakdown shows how often each of Nielsen Norman's heuristics was violated during the evaluation of the CeraVe desktop site:

(Total violations: 52)

- Consistency and standards: 17
- Match between System and the Real World: 12
- Aesthetic and Minimalist Design: 6
- Visibility of System Status: 8
- Error Prevention: 1
- Help Users Recognize and Recover from Errors: 3
- Flexibility and Efficiency of Use: 3
- Help and Documentation: 1
- Recognition rather than Recall: 1

Summary

The evaluation of the CeraVe website showed that the biggest issues were with Consistency and Standards (17 violations) and Match between System and the Real World (12 violations). Users face mismatched navigation behaviors, inconsistent labeling, uneven use of images, misplaced categories, and technical jargon that doesn't align with their expectations. Other common problems were Visibility of System Status (8) and Aesthetic and Minimalist Design (6), such as small action buttons, broken quiz feedback, visual clutter, and overwhelming product pages.

Overall impact on users

These issues make the site feel confusing and hard to use. Inconsistent design forces users to relearn patterns, while jargon and misplaced content reduce trust and understanding. Broken features and missing feedback frustrate users and block progress. Clutter and redundancy add noise instead of clarity. Together, these problems lower product discoverability, create frustration, and risk lost sales and weaker brand credibility.

Heuristic evaluation findings table

Sr. no.	Heuristic violated	Problem description	Severity ratings (from 0-4)	Recommendations
1	Consistency and standards	The placement of “Skincare quizzes” menu in top nav is inconsistent with common e-commerce standards, and it distracts users from exploring core product categories first.	2	Reposition “Skincare Quizzes” to the rightmost side of the navigation bar. This would encourage users to explore products first.
2	Consistency and standards	The “Skincare Quizzes” menu mixes product types (e.g., cleansers, moisturizers), skin concerns (e.g., acne), and routines, leading to inconsistency and confusion.	3	Group quizzes consistently, e.g., by purpose (“Find by Skin Concern,” “Find by Product Type,” “Find a Routine”) and avoid mixing unrelated categories in one menu.
3	Consistency and standards	The “Bestsellers” page shows a flat list of products without grouping by product type, making it harder for users to find	3	Add subcategories under “Bestsellers” (e.g., Cleansers, Moisturizers, Sunscreens) to mirror product popular cleansers, moisturizers, or sunscreens quickly.		classification and maintain consistency with the rest of the navigation.

4	Match between system and the real world	Baby Skincare products are mixed with regular skincare, which does not reflect how users mentally separate baby care from adult skincare.	3	Create a separate “Baby Skincare” menu in the top navigation. This matches users’ mental models and improves scan ability.
5	Consistency and standards	The “Haircare” menu includes an image, while other menus are text-only, creating inconsistency in visual presentation.	2	Either add supportive images across all menus for consistency or keep all menus text-only.
6	Aesthetic and minimalist design	The marquee at the bottom of the page is distracting.	1	Either get rid of it or reduce the speed and tone down the color to make it less bright.
7	Consistency and standards	The Haircare menu mixes product types (e.g., shampoo, conditioner) with attributes/concerns (e.g., anti-dandruff, gentle), leading to inconsistent categorization.	3	Organize the haircare menu consistently. Keep product types separate, and concerns separate.

8	Consistency and standards	In the Haircare menu, “Haircare Products” is not clickable while “Hair & Scalp Expertise” is, creating inconsistency in interaction behavior.	2	Either make both section headings clickable or keep both non-clickable.
9	Consistency and standards	The color of section headings for “Skincare 101” does not match the color of section headings of other menus.	1	Standardize section heading colors across all menus to maintain visual consistency.
10	Consistency and standards	The section headings under “Skincare 101” are clickable, while section headings under “Skincare” are not, creating inconsistent interaction behavior.	2	Either make all headings clickable (linking to landing pages) or keep all as non-clickable labels, ensuring consistent interaction across menus.
11	Match between system and the real world	The Ingredient Glossary is placed under Skincare 101 instead of being a standalone help resource, making it harder for users to locate as a reference tool.	3	Move the Ingredient Glossary to a more prominent location, e.g., as a top nav menu.
12	Match between system and	The “Strength of Ceramides” page is placed under Skincare		Move the “Strength of Ceramides” to the Ingredients

	the real world	101 instead of the Ingredients Glossary.	2	Glossary to maintain a consistent structure where all ingredient-related information is grouped together.
13	Match between system and the real world	“The Ceramides Difference” is placed under Why CeraVe instead of within ingredient-focused sections.	2	Move “The Ceramide Difference” to the Ingredients Glossary, while keeping Why CeraVe focused on brand credibility and description.
14	Visibility of System Status	The “X” close button on the bottom-right acne quiz popup is too small and blends with the marquee, making it hard for users to see and dismiss.	1	Increase the size and contrast of the “X” close button and provide adequate spacing from the marquee.
15	Consistency and standards	The landing page area under the marquee mixes product types (e.g., cleansers, moisturizers) with concerns (e.g., acne, anti-aging), creating	3	Separate the section into two distinct sub-sections, one for Product Types and another for Skin Concerns.

		inconsistent categorization.
16	Visibility of System Status	The “Explore Products” link in the New Launches section is too small, making it easy for users to overlook.	1	Increase the size, contrast, and prominence of the “Explore Products” link, and style it consistently with other primary CTAs.
17	Match between system and the real world	Products display star ratings, but do not show the number of reviews.	2	Display the number of reviews alongside the star rating on products to align with user expectations.
18	Visibility of System Status	The “Explore Products” link in the Haircare section is too small, making it easy for users to overlook.	1	Increase the size, contrast, and prominence of the “Explore Products” link, and style it consistently with other primary CTAs.
19	Aesthetic and Minimalist Design	The phrase “All hair types, all curl patterns and color-treated hair” is repeated under every haircare product, creating redundancy and adding little value.	1	Remove repetitive descriptions and instead use differentiating properties.
20	Aesthetic and	“#1 Dermatologist recommended		Remove repetitive descriptions and Minimalist Design	skincare brand” badge is displayed next to each haircare product, creating redundancy.	1	instead use differentiating properties.

21	Help Users Recognize, Diagnose, and Recover from Errors	The skincare solution finder quiz page leads to an “Internal Server Error” message, preventing users from completing the quiz.	4	Fix the backend/server issue to restore quiz functionality and provide a user-friendly fallback error message.
22	Consistency and standards	The Bestsellers page displays all products on one long page without subcategories, making it hard for users to quickly find top products by type.	3	Organize the Bestsellers page into subcategories (e.g., Cleansers, Moisturizers, Sunscreens, Haircare, Baby Skincare).
23	Flexibility and Efficiency of Use	The Bestsellers page does not provide filters, forcing users to read through all products manually to find what they want.	3	Add filters on the Bestsellers page (e.g., by product type, skin concern, age group, price) so users can quickly locate relevant top-selling items.
24	Consistency and standards	The “Get Started” button on the body moisturizer quiz page skews in an odd way on mouse hover and	1	Standardize hover behavior across buttons.

		is not consistent with the other CTA buttons.
25	Consistency and standards	The design of the quiz pages is inconsistent - layouts, buttons, and interaction styles vary across different quizzes.	2	Apply a standardized design system across all quizzes.
26	Help Users Recognize, Diagnose, and Recover from Errors	The skincare routine quiz page leads to an "Internal Server Error" message, preventing users from completing the quiz.	4	Fix the backend/server issue to restore quiz functionality and provide a user-friendly fallback error message.
27	Visibility of System Status	The breadcrumb for the "Education Home" page is labeled as Home / Skin Smarts, which does not match the page title.	1	Update breadcrumbs to reflect the actual page name (e.g., Home / Skincare 101 / Education Home)
28	Visibility of System Status	The article "Finding the Best Cleanser for Oily Skin" displays only alt text for ingredient images instead of the actual visuals, making the content incomplete.	3	Add images so that correct ingredient visuals are displayed.
29	Match between	The Skincare Routine page does not provide		Add actual skincare routine examples

	system and the real world	any routines; instead, it shows the question “Which skincare routine is right for you?” followed directly by FAQs, breaking user expectations.	3	(e.g., step-by-step regimens for different skin types/concerns).
30	Visibility of System Status	The breadcrumb for the “Skin concerns 101” page is labeled as Home / Skin Smarts / Skin Concerns, instead of Home / Skincare 101 / Skin concerns.	1	Update breadcrumbs to reflect the actual page name (e.g., Home / Skincare 101 / Skincare concerns)
31	Visibility of System Status	The breadcrumb for the “Why CeraVe” page is labeled as Home / Why CeraVe, instead of Home / Why CeraVe / Why CeraVe.	1	Update breadcrumbs to reflect the actual page name (e.g., Home / Why CeraVe / Why CeraVe)
32	Consistency and standards	“The Ceramide Difference” page uses a completely different background and scrolling effects compared to the rest of the site, breaking visual and interaction consistency.	2	Standardize page backgrounds, scrolling behavior, and overall design across all site sections.

33	Aesthetic and Minimalist Design	In the Baby Skincare section, each product is redundantly labeled “For baby skin”, even though the category context already makes this clear.	1	Remove repetitive descriptions and instead use differentiating properties.
34	Match between system and the real world	Products display star ratings, but do not show the number of reviews.	2	Display the number of reviews alongside the star rating on products to align with user expectations.
35	Match between system and the real world	The “Buy Online” button on product detail pages links out to third-party retailers (Target, CVS, Walmart, etc.) instead of enabling direct purchase, which may confuse users.	3	If possible, add a direct purchase option on CeraVe’s site to be consistent with the other e-commerce websites.
36	Match between system and the real world	The FAQ section uses jargon-heavy language, making it difficult for general users to understand.	2	Rewrite FAQ entries in plain language, focusing on user-friendly terms and short sentences.
37	Help and Documentation	The site lacks onboarding or guided shopping support for new users, leaving first-time visitors without direction on	2	Add onboarding aids such as a guided shopping tool, starter routines, or how to choose products.		interactive product finders.

38	Help Users Recognize, Diagnose, and Recover from Errors	The Skincare Solution Finder Quiz is promoted in multiple locations across the site, but the link leads to an Internal Server Error, making the feature unusable.	4	Fix the server error to restore quiz functionality.
39	Consistency and standards	Product images are inconsistent - some show the product's texture/appearance, while others show the back of the packaging as the additional image.	1	Standardize product imagery.
40	Recognition rather than Recall	No "Recently Viewed Products" section.	2	Add a recently viewed products section for users to return to their last viewed products quickly.
41	Aesthetic and Minimalist Design	Too many homepage banners compete for attention.	3	Reduce the number of competing banners on the homepage and prioritize the most important messages.

42	Flexibility and Efficiency of Use	No “Save for Later” or Wishlist feature.	2	Add a “Save for Later” or Wishlist feature to product detail and cart pages.
43	Match between system and the real world	In the product comparison tool, ingredient explanations appear at the top-left of the page, far from the actual ingredient list, making them easy to overlook.	3	Position ingredient explanations inline or alongside the ingredient lists in the comparison area.
44	Match between system and the real world	The Daily Moisturizing Lotion product page uses jargon-heavy language.	2	Rewrite information on product pages in plain language, focusing on user-friendly terms and short sentences.
45	Flexibility and Efficiency of Use	The Haircare page does not provide filters, forcing users to read through all products manually to find what they want.	3	Add filters on the Haircare page so users can quickly locate relevant items.
46	Aesthetic and Minimalist Design	Product information on the Product Details Page is overwhelming, with too much technical detail presented at once and	3	Use visual hierarchy to convey more important information first.

		no clear content hierarchy.
47	Visibility of System Status	In the Contact Us form, the placeholder text color matches the input text color, making it impossible to distinguish between fields that are filled and those that are empty.	2	Ensure filled input text has sufficient contrast.
48	Error Prevention	The Contact Us form asks for details like product code and where purchased, which many users may not remember.	3	Make these fields optional or allow users to proceed with simpler information if they don't remember.
49	Match between system and the real world	The comparison chart uses acronyms such as BPO for benzoyl peroxide, which general users may not understand.	3	Use full terms with acronyms in parentheses.
50	Consistency and standards	The footer About section includes a link titled "Skin Smarts", but there is no corresponding page or label in the top navigation.	2	Either rename "Skin Smarts" to match an existing section (Skincare 101) or add it consistently to both nav and footer to avoid mismatched terminology.

51	Consistency and standards	The sitemap shows “Skin Smarts” instead of “Education Home”, creating inconsistency with navigation labels and page titles.	2	Align sitemap labels with the actual navigation and page titles.
52	Consistency and standards	The sitemap does not include the “Celebrating 20 Years of CeraVe” page, making the sitemap incomplete.	2	Update the sitemap regularly to include all active pages.

The ideal facial wash for oily skin

Most people with oily skin prefer a foaming cleanser that leaves the skin feeling fresh and clean—and cleansers for oily skin come in several textures, including gels and creams. Cleansers for this skin type are formulated to effectively remove excess oil, dirt and makeup, but the ideal facial wash for oily skin will do all of this without leaving the skin feeling stripped, uncomfortable or tight. It's important to keep in mind that facial wash for oily skin should be used morning and night as well as after sweating. Although many people with oily skin believe that washing more often can help reduce excess sebum, over-washing can actually prompt the skin to produce more oil.²

 Hyaluronic acid

Hyaluronic acid: Hyaluronic acid is a sugar that is naturally produced by the body. Found naturally within the skin, hyaluronic acid is responsible for the skin's plumpness and volume. This ingredient can attract and retain moisture, making it an excellent non-comedogenic hydrating ingredient for oily skin. Hyaluronic acid forms a layer of hydration on top of the skin that enhances its feeling of softness and smoothness, and it also ~~helps firm, soothe and~~ plump the skin without clogging pores.

 Niacinamide

Niacinamide: Also known as vitamin B₃, niacinamide plays an important role in soothing and helping to restore the skin barrier, which can help balance moisture levels. This vitamin is also known to help reduce the visible effects of environmental damage so skin appears healthier and more radiant, and it can be

WHAT IS A FULLY PHYSICAL SUNSCREEN? -

Unlike chemical sunscreens which absorb the sun's rays, fully physical sunscreens work on the surface of the skin to deflect UV rays. In addition, physical sunscreens are a good option for individuals with sensitive skin because they are associated with less irritation than chemical sunscreens. However, most physical sunscreens are messy and are not easily absorbed. CeraVe fully physical sunscreen lotions contain InVisibleZinc™ technology which helps deliver an elegant, lightweight, dry, clear finish on the skin. See our full sunscreen line here.

WHAT IS THE SKIN BARRIER? -

The skin barrier is the outer most layer of the skin. It is made up of 50% ceramides, 25% cholesterol, and 10-25% fatty acids. Over time, the depletion of ceramides can result in moisture loss, dryness and cracking, and/or inflammation and irritation from allergens and toxins on the skin barrier.

 • Hyaluronic Acid: Essential for maintaining skin's moisture balance. Helps give skin a smooth, plump texture.
 • Niacinamide: May help calm skin, reduce transdermal water loss (TEWL), and increase moisture in skin's uppermost layer.
 • Ceramides: Helps restore your skin's natural barrier, helping to keep moisture in and harmful elements out.
